Fairfax County's Meals on Wheels Program Needs You

Fairfax County's Meals on Wheels program is facing a critical shortage of volunteers. Currently the agency is in need of volunteers throughout the county, especially the western end of the county and the Fairfax City area.

The Fairfax City area urgently needs volunteers for all three types of volunteer positions—group coordinator, driver-coordinator and driver. The volunteer group coordinator handles the day-to-day operations of the Meals on Wheels group and requires an average of 15 hours per month. The volunteer driver-coordinator schedules drivers, from an existing pool of drivers, to deliver the meals. This position requires about five hours per month. Volunteer drivers pick up the meals at the food pickup site and deliver them to designated recipients.

Volunteer drivers are needed in the Bailey's Crossroads, Centreville/Chantilly, Clifton, Falls Church, Lorton, McLean, Mount Vernon, Vienna/Oakton and Dunn Loring communities. There is also a unique volunteer opportunity at Forest Glen Senior Housing in Centreville where volunteers are needed to deliver meals to recipients' apartments. No driving is involved, however, because Forest Glen is the pickup site.

In 2001, approximately 1,500 Meals on Wheels volunteers delivered 257,690 meals to 917 older adults in Fairfax County. By volunteering a few hours each month, you can help some of your older adult neighbors remain independent in their homes.

The Meals on Wheels concept began during World War II in England when civil defense workers discovered that elderly homebound citizens were unable to get food when the country was under siege. The Women's Volunteer Service for Civil Defense responded to the need by providing meals for the seniors. An adaptation of the program was introduced in the U.S. in Pennsylvania in 1954. Currently, more than a million meals are served each weekday by Meals on Wheels programs nationwide. Of the more than 250 million meals served annually, over 100 million of them are delivered to the homebound primarily by volunteers.

Please call the Fairfax County Area Agency on Aging at 703-324-5846 or 703-324-5406, TTY 703-449-1186, for more information or to volunteer. Additional information and volunteer job descriptions can also be found online at www.fairfaxcounty.gov/service/aaa/homepage.html.

New Video Highlights Importance of Technology for Girls and Women

"Tech-Savvy Girls" is a compelling, fast-paced video produced by the Fairfax County Public Schools (FCPS) in collaboration with the Reston-Herndon branch of the American Association of University Women and Fairfax County's Office for Women (OFW) and Commission for Women. Narrated by Mae Jemison, the first African-American woman in space, the video examines the underrepresentation of girls in technology courses and careers and looks at innovative steps taken by several local educators and parents to close the technology gender gap.

The video will be shown on FCPS Cable Channel 21 three times daily from Monday, Oct. 7 through Sunday, Oct. 13 at 12:30 p.m., 4 p.m., and 9 p.m. (except for the evening of Oct. 10 when the School Board meeting will be aired live).

"Tech-Savvy Girls" cites data gathered by the OFW showing that boys outnumbered girls in every technology course offered by Fairfax County Public Schools during the 2001-02 school year. Courses included in the OFW analysis ranged from keyboarding and word processing to computer science and network administration.

"While some dismiss girls' lack of participation in technology as a matter of personal preference, the video clearly shows that there is a difference between choice and opportunity," said Office for Women Director Leia Francisco. "'Tech-Savvy Girls' is all about changing old stereotypes, creating better role models and reaching out to engage each girl's interests."
